Subject: When will you open???

Around the Course

The number one question this week is when will you open? Followed by can I get a tee time for Monday, it will be in the 50's?

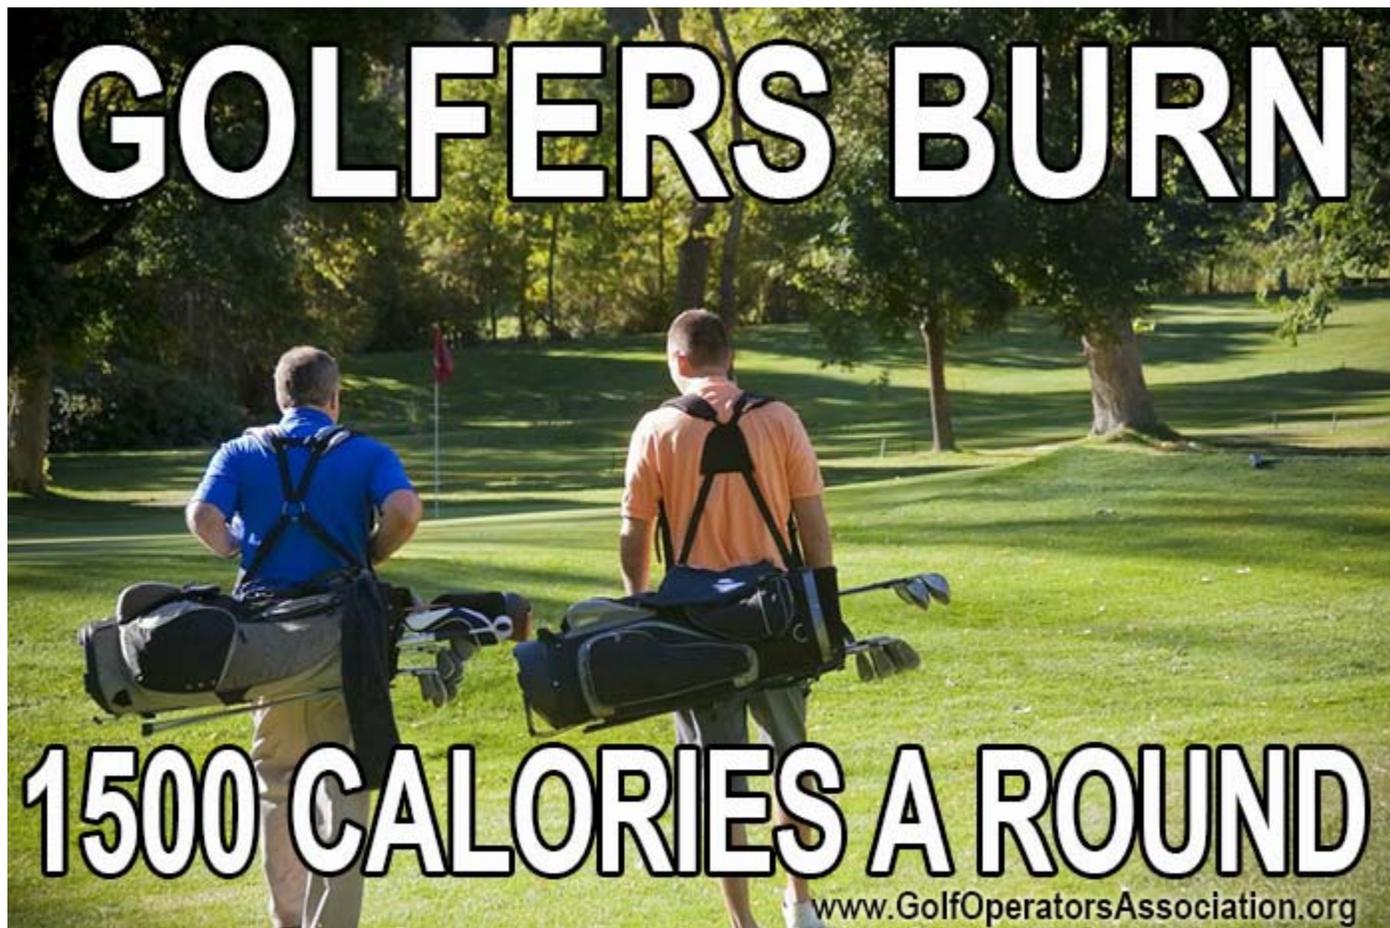

Unfortunately we have a ways to go. The course is still 75% covered in snow and more importantly under that snow is the frozen tundra.... (it's not only found at Lambeau field). Yes we have allowed play with snow banks in the past but that is in late spring or fall when the ground is thawed.

The main thing we need is the ground to thaw enough the water soaks in. As it thaws the top inch of ground is extremely soft and damage could be done if traffic is allowed on greens, tees and fairways. The miracle of spring is, one day the course is super saturated and the next day ready for walking golf. This warm spell will help get us closer to our goal of playing golf.

Will the course open next week? It is very unlikely. Will the range be open? It is possible the range will be open off the mats next week but it is too early to say for certain. You will be the first to know when the course and range are ready.
